RadiciGroup White Paper: the Group explains its identity

RadiciGroup has published its new White Paper. This document was inspired by a well-defined aim: to illustrate the complex system of relationships that define the corporate profile of the Group, an industrial multinational whose performance can only in part be measured in economic and financial terms.

RadiciGroup stands for total control of its vertically integrated polyamide production chain and diversified businesses in chemicals, plastics and synthetic fibres. A global presence. Social values, an ethical approach to work, respect for human rights and safeguarding the environment. Doing business responsibly. In its new White Paper, RadiciGroup provides a comprehensive view of its identity, distinguishing features and the sustainability indices of its business activities. The introduction, presenting the RadiciGroup profile and vision that lie at the basis of the paper, is followed by sections dedicated to the responsibilities the enterprise has to its stakeholders (customers, employees, suppliers, end users, communities, scientific and cultural organizations), as well as its commitment to environment protection and upholding human rights.

“Essential” is the graphical style chosen by New Media Agency MultiMedia Fattoria Digitale for this new corporate communication project. The key concepts of the eight sections that make up the White Paper are represented by a sequence of grey-textured 3D icons: from an “application suitcase” containing some of the main RadiciGroup product applications to images representing the Group’s responsibilities towards stakeholders, production chain control and community values.

Also included are graphical representations of themes such as decent working practices, human rights, environmental protection and the need for a sustainable global economy.

All these aspects, which are central to RadiciGroup's corporate vision, are discussed in much greater detail in the Group's Sustainability Report, an important corporate document drawn up in accordance with the guidelines set forth by the Global Reporting Initiative (GRI), the most influential world organization in the field of non-financial reporting. The Sustainability Report and the new White Paper complement each other.

To RadiciGroup, sustainability has long meant commitment, concrete action and awareness of the environmental, social and economic impact of its industrial activities throughout the product lifecycle. The Group realizes that a sustainable approach to business can really make a difference.
